Put Into Practice.

Poor Pattison went into a druggist's shop for some plaster for his head.

"I've always tried to bring up my children to think before they speak," he said, with a sigh; "but I am convinced it is a wrong principle."

"Surely not, sir," answered the druggist sympathetically.

"Yes, sir," Pattison replied; "I told my children always to count ten before they say anything. This morning I went out for a walk with my eldest son. We were walking near some partially-built houses, when Tom called out:

"Oh, father!"

"Now, steady, my boy," I said, seeing he was excited. "Count ten."

"Did he obey you?"

"Yes, worse luck, he did; but before he had got five the brick he had seen falling hit me on the head. Thank you! how much?"

BOND BILL A NULLITY.

House Judiciary Committee Reports Issue a Dead Letter.

The house judiciary committee, after careful study, holds that the cotton bond bill is a nullity because it did not become the law until midnight Tuesday, many hours after the election was over with. The report was prepared by three of the best equipped lawyers of the State. It is concise and reads:

"The committee on judiciary, to whom was referred Message No. 21 of his excellency, the governor, as to the time when the act referred to will become law without the governor's signature, beg to report:

"First. That the constitutional provision reads as follows: 'If a bill or joint resolution shall not be returned by the governor within three days after it shall have been presented to him, Sundays excepted, it shall have the same force and effect as if he had signed it, unless the general assembly, by adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall have such force and effect unless returned within two days after the next meeting.'

Computation of Time.

"Second. That in the opinion of this committee the computation of time in this case should be made by excluding the day on which the act was presented to the governor. This being so, Friday is excluded, and the three days will not be completed until midnight Tuesday, November 3, 1914. This is in accord with the opinion of our own supreme court in the case of Corwin vs comptroller general, 6 S. C. 290.

"The language of the court is as follows: 'That the three days within which the governor is to return a bill with his objection is to be computed by excluding the day in which the bill is transmitted to him.'

"In that case the bill was transmitted to the governor on Thursday and it was held that he could return it up to midnight of Monday night, and, that failing to do so, it became law at midnight of Monday night, the general assembly being still in session.

In This Instance.

"In this instance, the bill was transmitted to the governor on Friday, October 30, and by the same calculation will not become law until midnight Tuesday night, unless signed by the governor or returned with his objections without signing and passed over his veto. However, if the general assembly adjourns before Tuesday night it will not become law without the governor's signature until the second day of the next regular session.

"Respectfully submitted,
"ARNOLDUS VANDER HORST,
"W. F. STEVENSON,
"GEO. S. MOWER,

"For the committee." The report was adopted by the house and ordered spread on the house Journal. This, however, did not prevent folks voting the tickets sent out by direction of the senate with no statute for the election. If the ballots are counted more trouble will ensue. It is agreed that the cotton bond act has vaporized from legislative viewpoint.

Covering the Case.

Judge Gundy, of Atchison, tells this lawyer story: An Irish lawyer was attorney for a man charged with murder. Addressing the judge, the attorney said: "Your honor, I shall first absolutely prove to the jury that the prisoner could not have committed the crime with which he is charged. If that does not convince the jury, I shall show that he was insane when he committed it. If that fails, I shall prove an alibi."—Kansas City Journal.

Not a Bit Heroic.

"Why don't you see that your daughters learn to cook?"

"Why should I? They wouldn't cook for me. Let their husbands supply the material for them to practice on."—Louisville Courier Journal.

A Disappointing Proposition.

The editor got a letter Friday headed "Buy-a-Bale." He thought: Now, here is a letter from another generous Northerner offering to buy a bale of cotton at 10 cents and authorizing us to draw on him for $50; for the eye had caught sight of "$50" in the line below. But when he read it over he found it was an advertisement offering to take cotton for goods at 10 cents a pound for the cotton. And the proposition to the editor was to pay him for the advertising in "a chance at a '$50' scholarship" in a business school. No wonder editors get so rich.—Newberry Observer.

Scrubs Fatten Quickly

You want your pigs to eat as much as possible when you fatten them. Give them a great variety of feed, keep the appetite keen and the digestion in good order, and you will obtain the desired result; especially if you mix with the grain ration a dose of

Bee Dee STOCK MEDICINE

Whets the appetite—Helps digestion.

I put some scrubby-looking hogs in the pen to fatten and gave them Bee Dee STOCK MEDICINE in their feed. I soon had fine, healthy-looking hogs, which netted me over 500 pounds.
